

Liminal Qualia at Rowan University Art Gallery, September 11, for 2020 Philadelphia Fringe Festival

Glassboro, NJ, Release: September 04, 2020. For Immediate Release

Liminal Qualia will be at Rowan University Art Gallery as part of Fringe Festival Philadelphia 2020. The collaborative experiential light and sound project will express vibrations on September 11, 2020 at 8pm. The performative art installation will be streamed live from the art gallery.

The 6 artist show of primarily analog experimental light and noise is brought to life by three large industrial instruments produced of found-art, and 3 old-school projectors with liquid shapes, colors and moiré. Liminal Qualia is a singular happening and occupies over 600 square feet of floor and fills the space with organic light and sound.

The collaborative artists, Robert T. Whyte, Nathan Whyte, Zackary Rofrano, Matthew Glick, Alexander Marshall and Juan M. Garces, bring together disruptive ideas of sound and light into one indeterminate experience. Liminal Qualia is improvisational by nature and is always an un-scripted ephemeral event.

“The synthesis of disparate light and sound sensory stimuli is compiled in the viewer’s mind.” – Robert Whyte

Rowan University College of Performing Arts, Music Industry Program, 2020 graduate, Nathan Whyte is co-producer of Liminal Qualia for Fringe Arts 2020 Festival. Nathan has been involved with the project since its inception in 2018.

The Rowan University Art Gallery is a premier destination for the presentation of interdisciplinary art exhibitions, women’s gender studies and public programming. Gallery Director, Mary Salvante leads the discourse of contemporary art in the community.
